The Warmest of Welcomes...

Thank you for joining us at The Cove - Kettering. We hope that you enjoy your stay and consider The Cove your home away from home. We're the perfect base from which to explore the best of southern Tasmania (and beyond) - or simply sit back and enjoy the view...and if there is anything we can do to make your stay more comfortable, please do not hesitate to ask.

We acknowledge the traditional custodians of the lands on which we live and work, the Palawa people of Lutruwita. We honour the First Nations community, their Elders past, present and emerging.

A LITTLE HISTORY...

The historic village of Kettering was first explored in 1792 by Bruni D'Entrecasteaux (for whom the surrounding channel is named) and is situated in a bay known as Little Oyster Cove.

Settled in the 1800s Kettering has grown around the fishing, ferry and whaling port of Little Oyster Cove.

Kettering village is only 30 minutes drive south of Hobart surrounded by wooded hills and offering stunning views of Little Oyster Cove, Bruny island and the D'Entrecasteaux Channel.

As well as being located at the gateway to Bruny Island the village offers ready access to a wide range of local attractions and is an ideal base to explore the world-renowned Huon Trail.

Explore by Water

Water, water everywhere. Southern Tasmania is bristling with hidden coves and secret bays, broad channels and waterfalls, inlets and mighty rivers – and myriad ways to dive in. Paddle the rivers and bays of the far south by kayak with Esperance Adventures, learn about the heritage craft of wooden boat building at the Wooden Boat Centre in Franklin. For higher-octane adventure, take a ride with Bruny Island Cruises around a dramatic shoreline, punctuated by cliffs, stacks, caves and marine life.

Graze

Dawdle between farm gates, roadside stalls and markets in the Huon Valley, known for its apple and pear orchards and abundant fresh produce. There's more grazing along the D'Entrecasteaux Channel, and just a short ferry ride across to Bruny Island for oysters, artisanal cheese and craft beer. Explore the laidback food scene in towns such as Geeveston, Cygnet, Franklin and Huonville. And roll up the sleeves at cooking classes staged by the likes of the Farmhouse Kitchen and Fat Pig Farm.

Make your way to the Edge

It takes less than two hours to travel to Cockle Creek. Yet at latitude 43 degrees, buffeted by a gale fresh from Antarctica, and on the edge of the vast Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area, the sense of life-affirming isolation at the edge is complete and profound.

Approach another edge at Tahune Airwalk, a 600-metre canopy walk near Geeveston that hangs high above the forest floor, with a final cantilevered section positioned – thrillingly – 50 metres above the Huon River. And water reaches the edge of cliffs and gorges across the south; insiders recommend chasing Peverata Falls, Billy Brown Falls, Arve Falls and Adamsons Falls.

Explore

Discover Natural Wonders

The south's natural wonders are as diverse as they are numerous.

Head underground to explore the labyrinth of dolomite chambers on a tour at Hastings Caves and Thermal Springs and, above ground, walk its rainforest tracks.

Bruny Island, climb the stairs for sweeping 360-degree views from The Neck Lookout, on the isthmus joining North and South Bruny. And venture into the remote waterways of the South West Wilderness

Into the Wild

What does a 3000-year-old tree look like? And what is real wilderness? A journey to the Southern Edge is the place to think about the big questions – and a portal into one of the last great wild places on Earth, the 1.4 million-hectare Tasmanian Wilderness World Heritage Area.

Insiders recommend the South Cape Bay Track In Hartz Mountains National Park, they traverse landscapes shaped by glaciers to reach Hartz Peak as a day walk. And on Bruny Island, insiders favour the beach-and-bush vistas of Cape Queen Elizabeth Track and the Fluted Cape Track.

Starry Skies

Look up – in a world where more than 80 per cent of people live with light pollution, the stars are fading, the universe shrinking. In southern Tasmania, however, the universe seems close and vast, the unpolluted night sky inky and sparkling with glittering constellations and the glorious spilt-milk mess of the Milky Way. It's the night sky as you've never seen it. Tasmania is also one of the few places in the world to see the elusive natural lightshow of Aurora Australis, or the Southern Lights. Chances improve the further south you head.

Explore

Bruny Island

Whether you are a gourmet, a history buff or lover of the outdoors, Bruny Island has a unique ability to enchant.

Bruny is the same size as Singapore, but has a population of less than 1000, rather than 4.5 million. It's a great place for beach walking, or taking a trek to the Cape Bruny Lighthouse.

It is close to 100 kilometres from Bruny Island tip to tail and can be almost deserted midweek, making it the perfect escape from city hustle with limited mobile reception, beautiful beaches (Adventure Bay has been named among the best in Australia) and dramatic scenery.

Bruny Island was first sighted by Abel Tasman in 1642 and named after Rear Admiral Bruny d'Entrecasteaux, who visited the island in 1792-93.

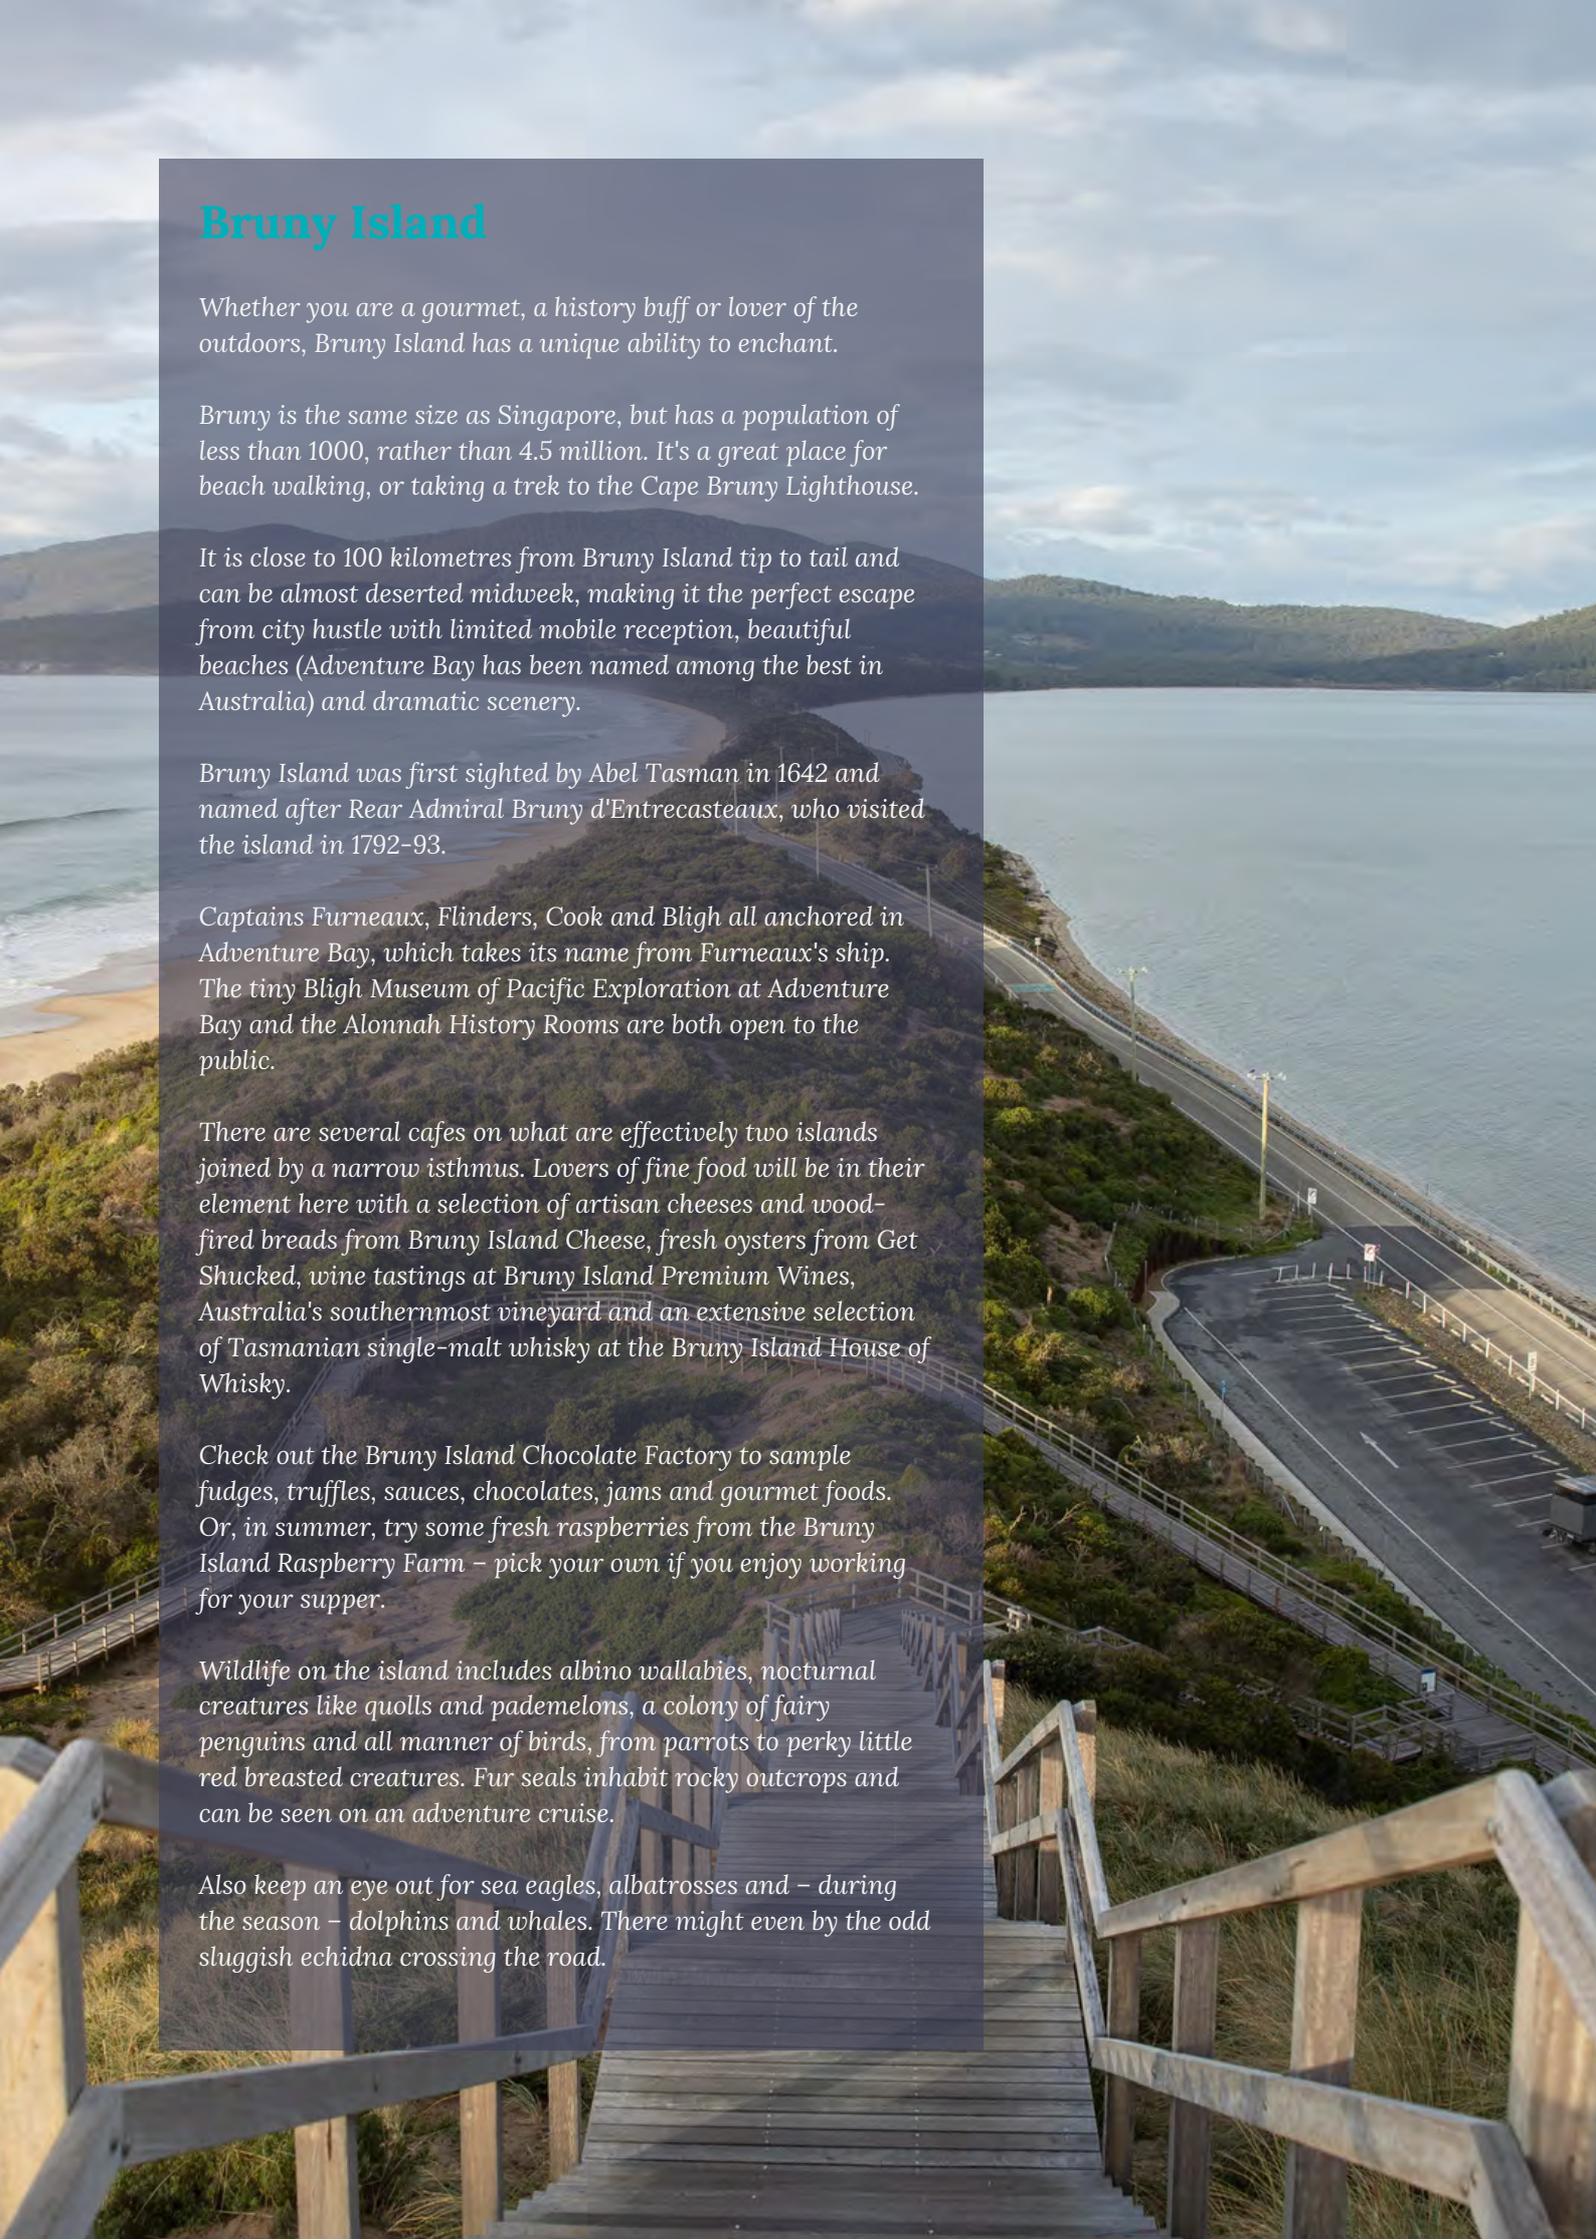

Captains Furneaux, Flinders, Cook and Bligh all anchored in Adventure Bay, which takes its name from Furneaux's ship. The tiny Bligh Museum of Pacific Exploration at Adventure Bay and the Alonnah History Rooms are both open to the public.

There are several cafes on what are effectively two islands joined by a narrow isthmus. Lovers of fine food will be in their element here with a selection of artisan cheeses and wood-fired breads from Bruny Island Cheese, fresh oysters from Get Shucked, wine tastings at Bruny Island Premium Wines, Australia's southernmost vineyard and an extensive selection of Tasmanian single-malt whisky at the Bruny Island House of Whisky.

Check out the Bruny Island Chocolate Factory to sample fudges, truffles, sauces, chocolates, jams and gourmet foods. Or, in summer, try some fresh raspberries from the Bruny Island Raspberry Farm – pick your own if you enjoy working for your supper.

Wildlife on the island includes albino wallabies, nocturnal creatures like quolls and pademelons, a colony of fairy penguins and all manner of birds, from parrots to perky little red breasted creatures. Fur seals inhabit rocky outcrops and can be seen on an adventure cruise.

Also keep an eye out for sea eagles, albatrosses and – during the season – dolphins and whales. There might even be the odd sluggish echidna crossing the road.

"Excellent'...

*We stopped here for 4 nights and were not disappointed in any part of it. It's an excellent location for seeing the southern part of the island and getting across to Bruny Island which is a must. Every part of this apartment is 5*. Views from it are also fantastic*

"The Cove - a restful break'...

Stayed two nights during our tour of Tasmania and were impressed with the overall quality of the property. The room and furnishings are classy and elegant whilst affording comfort and convenience. We liked the heated floor options but did not get to test them due to the warmer weather.

"What a lovely surprise'...

Attention to detail, makes all the difference here and there are loads of it. Extra wide, roomy well appointed boutique, modern apartments, the stunning view took our breath away. Dinner.....5 minutes easy walk to the best seafood feast imaginable, at the local pub. We will be back, next time with our friends

"Exceptional'...

Absolutely beautiful- totally recommend

"Huge, modern room with stunning views' ...

The room was sparkling clean and HUGE! The amenities were modern, with floor heating in the bathroom. There's a small balcony with stunning, east-facing views across the harbour. The location up on the hill was quiet with good insulation in the room. We travelled with a 7 year old who slept comfortably on the pull out sofa. Breakfast was served in the breakfast room next door near a fireplace inclusive of the same view.

"Exceptional location'...

"Perfect spot to stay'...

Absolutely wonderful hosts who provided excellent recommendations for our day on Bruny Island, local eating spots and coast driving routes. Minutes away from the Bruny Island ferry. Spacious (!!!) and immaculately clean accommodation. Sensational views of the water from the veranda. Huge bathroom with a great shower. Impressive continental breakfast - We highly recommend this accommodation as the ideal base to explore the beautiful south-east coast of Tasmania and Bruny Island.

Guest Reviews

An aerial photograph of a modern, multi-unit residential or commercial building complex. The buildings are primarily grey and white with flat roofs. In the foreground, a silver SUV is parked in a dark asphalt parking area. The building complex is situated on a hillside overlooking a harbor filled with numerous sailboats. The background shows a coastal town with various houses and a road curving along the water's edge. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.

We'd love to hear your thoughts.

Please consider leaving us a review, so we can continue to improve.
